Though found guilty he was pardoned on 16th Dec. 1746, but died in April 1747, and was buried in the churchyard of St. Margaret's, Westminster.— P.C. , 24, 369; S.P.D. , 79-26; Scots Mag. , 1746, 527, 594; Allardyce , ii. 464; Eger-ton MSS. , 2000-49.

Castlehill, Culross	—	'2nd son to Castle Hill.' His father John had been apprehended in June 1745 and imprisoned in England.— P.C. , 146. He was shown as 'a French prisoner' in the Jail return of Edinburgh.
Castlehill, Culross	53	Along with Sir Hector Maclean he was apprehended in Edinburgh by George Durie of Grange on 5th June '45 on suspicion of intention to raise the Highlands. He was put in Edinburgh Tolbooth on information by George Durie of Grange, by order of the Lord Advocate, and was thence taken to London on 18th June. The reason for his apprehension was no doubt the fact that early in 1745 he had been sent over to France by the Duke of Perth to inform the Prince of the state of affairs in Scotland. When he got to London he was placed in irons in Newgate, and he remained without trial in prison for one and a half years, when he was released on bail on 28th Feb. 1747. He was in London until 18th November and then returned to Scotland. His later life ended in a tragedy. On 4th Sept. 1767 he murdered one William Cairns, was tried and hanged, probably on 30th Oct., at Stirling.— Lyon , iii. 166, 180; Johnston , i. 30; Murray , 126.

? Auchleishie, Perthshire	19	This was probably Alexr. Buchanan, son of the Laird of Auchlieshie, Callander, Perthshire, who 'carried arms as a Captain in the rebell service,' and was later shown as a prisoner in London. He was tried on 15th Nov., but was acquitted on account of being only 19 years of age. His servant, John Buchanan, deponed that he had several times deserted or tried to do so and that he was repeatedly forced back.— Scots Mag. , 1746, 529 ; P.C. , 54, 372. Lenny House, Callander, Monteith	—	Arms collected by Murray of Broughton before the Prince's landing were lodged at the house of Francis Buchanan. He was arrested on suspicion before Culloden. No charge was brought against him at his trial except that an intercepted letter was stated to be in his handwriting. In a statement just before his death he regretted that he had not thrown in his lot openly with the Prince on his arrival and drawn his sword. When he arrived at Carlisle he was put in irons, and was told this was done by order of the Solicitor-General. The latter, when approached in regard to the severity of this treatment, said, 'I have particular orders about him, for he must suffer.' An incident which occurred before his capture may possibly have been connected with his case. Arnprior had been to see Stewart of Glenbucky, and there had been some dispute

Campfield, Kincardine	—	He is said 'to have belonged to the artillery company at Woolwich.' He said he was forced out by Glenbucket. He commanded the Carlisle Castle artillery. He fired the first cannon at the English army from Carlisle. He was taken prisoner at Carlisle on the surrender of the town, December 1745. He was sent to London, tried and convicted, but reprieved. Strathglass	—	Third son of John of Lochiel and brother of 'Cameron of Lochiel' of the '45. He was a Jesuit priest. It is not known what part he took in the Rising. When taken prisoner he was put on board the Furnace , Capt. Ferguson, where he was allowed no bed to lie on, except cables. He fell ill and Lord Albemarle ordered him to be put ashore. Ferguson refused to give him up without an order from the Duke of Newcastle. He also refused to allow any bedding or clothes to be supplied to him. Cameron died soon after the ship arrived in the Thames.— Lyon , i. 312, 313; Origins , 87 n.; Catholic Highlands , 201.
Dungallon, Argyllshire	—	'Was a standard bearer in the rebel army.'— P.C. , 282. After his surrender he was sent on parole to Inveraray. In March 1747 he went to Edinburgh and was committed to the Castle by the Lord Justice Clerk; he was still in jail, Feb. 1749, having been excepted from the Act of Pardon of June 1747. In August he appealed for release under the Act of 1701 regarding wrongous imprisonment, and was discharged. When the Prince heard Dungallon had surrendered he said: 'Why! I always looked upon Dungallon as a man of sense.'— Lyon , i. 80; Scots Mag. , 1747, 92; S.P.D. , 90-65, 111-38.
Glenevis, Inverness-shire	—	Alexander Cameron took no part in the Rising, but was imprisoned on suspicion of befriending relatives who were concerned. All his effects were plundered, his houses burnt, his wife and family grossly ill-treated by the infamous Capt. Carolina Scott, with a party of Government troops from Fort William. He surrendered to Genl. Campbell and was sent to Inveraray on parole. In March 1747 he went to Edinburgh and was sent to the Castle by the Lord Justice Clerk. He was released under the Indemnity in July 1747.— Lyon , i. 124, 309, iii. 137; S.P.D. , 96-16. The State Papers say 'it can be proven that in March-April 1746 he visited the Rebel Batteries at Fort William in arms without restraint.'— S.P.D. , 90-65, 96-16; Scots Mag. , 1747, 92.

He left Scotland with the Prince and went to France, remaining abroad until 1753, when he returned home thinking there was no danger in doing so. He was, however, captured at the house of Stewart of Glenbuckie, taken to London and tried for his life, under the old attainder of 1746. He had no trial, but was sentenced to death. He was executed on 7th June 1753, and a monument to him, the last victim of the '45, was put up to his memory in the Chapel vault of the old Savoy Chapel, where he is buried. The charge against him appears to have been that he had had blank commissions signed by the Prince to distribute. Sanford Terry says the reason for his execution was 'his implication in the hare-brained Elibank plot, serious only because of Frederick the Great's suspected connivance.'—Origins, 97, 217, 219; Macbeth Forbes, 24; Itinerary, 5, 10, 47, 65, 66; Terry, 562. down to the time of the entry into Edinburgh. When the Prince set out for England, Cameron was in charge of the Prince's baggage. He was thrown from his horse and so severely damaged that he was left at a house near Dalkeith. It was reported that he was lying there, and it was imagined he was Col. Strickland. He was sent to Edinburgh Tolbooth, where he was left. He says he escaped 'either through sickness or want of evidence' when others were sent off to be tried in Carlisle. He was released some time before the Indemnity, but, instead of going home, went to Holland. Apparently no one ever knew he was one of the Prince's companions in the Doutelle .— Lyon , i. 201-211.

It has been suggested that he is identical with Hugh Cameron, who was executed at Carlisle on 18th October 1746, but this cannot be, as the siege of Fort William lasted until 4th April and Hugh Cameron was taken prisoner on 1st February 1746 at Montrose. He was employed in collecting money in Fife, and was present at the battle of Falkirk on 17th January 1746. He took over command of Kilmarnock's Guards for a time. He was put in command of the operations against the Earl of Loudon, and pursued him for some time without success, and was superseded. On 15th April he was captured by the Sutherland Militia, sent to London, and committed to the Tower. On 28th July 1746 he was tried before the House of Lords, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to death, with forfeiture of estates and honours. He was respite on 9th August largely through the instrumentality of his wife and some of his friends who interceded for him. On 18th Feb. 1748 he was allowed to leave the Tower and to live in the house of a messenger. On 4th Oct. 1749 he had a pardon on condition of his confining himself during his life to such part of England as His Majesty shall, from time to time, direct. He himself did not go to England but he served in the actions of Inverury, Falkirk, and Culloden. At Culloden he was taken prisoner and sent to Inverness and thence to London, where he was tried and pleaded guilty ; on 15th Nov. sentenced to death. He was reprieved the day before the execution and sent to the house of Munie, messenger. He was soon afterwards pardoned on condition that he went and remained abroad (S.P.D. , 107-81), but this condition was altered to one binding him to confine himself to such place in England he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to death. The Synod of Aberdeen and the Earl of Findlater, a strong partisan of the Hanoverian cause, appealed for mercy for him. Sheuglie, Glen Urquhart, In- verness-shire	50	The attitude of Sheuglie was never a clearly defined one. On his own statement he tried to prevent his men joining the Prince, and when they had gone out he claimed to have induced them to surrender after Culloden. His own chief, however, Grant of Grant, was always suspicious of him, and most treacherously had him seized and imprisoned in Inverness, as a rebel. He was sent to Tilbury, where he died of fever, 29th July 1746.— Origins , 323, 326, 329; S.P.D. , 84-2.

Wester Inver- wick, Glen- moriston	48	Boatman. Was one of the party of 69 Grants of Glenmoriston which surrendered their arms at Inverness in May 1746 and were made prisoners. Livicie, Glen- moriston	45	Farmer in Glenmoriston. It is possible that this was the Alex. Grant who was brought to the Bar at St. Margaret's Hill, London, on 16th Dec. 1746. The Attorney-General pointed out that he had surrendered under the Duke's proclamation; and he was accordingly acquitted. He is described in the proceedings as 'brother to Patrick Grant of Glenmoriston.'— S.P.D. , 84-2, 86-18, 88-60; Scots Mag. , Dec. HOME OR ORIGIN.	AGE.	NOTES AND AUTHORITIES.
Preston	—	Butcher. This man appears to have been a lunatic. He was tried 19th Sept. 1746 at Carlisle and acquitted.— Scots Mag. , Sept. 1746, 439; S.P.D. , 88-16, 92-201; Baga , lxi. 179.
Asslid, Aberdeen	20	'Was at the battle of Culloden and there made prisoner.' He was eldest son of Andrew Hay of Asslid or Asleed; he became apprentice to James Hay, W.S. of Edinburgh, and was quite young when he joined the '45. He was taken and convicted of treason, but was reprieved in Feb. 1747 and, later, pardoned on condition that he went abroad and did not return. The forfeited estate was bought by James Hay, Clerk to the Signet, his uncle and tutor.— S.P.D. , 107-81; P.C. , 32, 370; Macbeth Forbes , 8; Allardyce , ii, 406; Egerton , 2000-14.

Portsoy, Banff	—	'Shipmaster.' 'A sailor.' 'Prisoner.'— P.C. , 30. He had a lieutenant's commission and raised some men for Lord John Drummond. On 26.2.46 he mistook an English ship, H.M.S. Shark , for a French one and was captured. This may be the man who gave evidence against the Master of Lovat. If so he would have been released as an Evidence for the Crown.— Allardyce , ii. 343.
	—	Brother of Hay of Hopes. He surrendered and was placed in Edinburgh Castle. Here he gave a good deal of information about the battle of Culloden (Scots Mag. , April 1746, 191). In due course he was sent to Carlisle, where he was convicted and sentenced to death; an appeal against this, on the ground that he was a French subject, was submitted by Lewis Drummond in Sept. 1746. He was reprieved, but included among those who were sent to London as fit for service in the Regular Army abroad. On the march, however, he was recalled and was eventually sent back to France with the other French troops in Oct. 1747.— Egerton , 2000-21; P.R. , 3622-12; S.P.D. , 87-127, 88-16; Macbeth Forbes , 57.

Kinloch, Meikle	—	Lyon , ii. 232. On 2nd Sept. 1745 the Prince wrote to him from Blair and asked him to join. He raised a second battalion of the Ogilvy Regt. After his capture he was sent to London, and on 15th Nov. 1746 was attainted and sentenced to death. He refused to give any information about himself when Mr. Sharpe, the Solicitor to the Treasury, came to question him in prison. He was reprieved through the interest of his brother-in-law, Lord Braco (afterwards Earl of Fife), but remained in custody until 14.8.48, when he was released on condition that he lived in England. It is said that when his life was spared she expressed her gratitude to Sir Joseph Yorke, brother of Lord Hardwicke, for his help. He asked her to name her next child after him; and in due course she called her son Joseph Yorke Kinloch.— Scots Mag. , April 1746, 188; Cockayne Baronetage , iv. 334; Mackintosh , 106; Allardyce , ii. 610; Tullibardine , ii. 333.

Inverness-shire	79	Born about 1667, Simon Fraser, 11th Lord Fraser of Lovat, one of the most remarkable men of his day. At the outbreak of the Rising he offered his services to the Prince and sent his son to join him, while he himself remained at home. After Prestonpans he raised his clan, but on 11th December was taken by Lord Loudoun and held as hostage for their fidelity. From this captivity he escaped with the help of Mrs. Leith. After Culloden he met the Prince at Gortuleg and tried to induce him to make another stand, and on his refusal retired to a hiding-place. He was hunted about and ultimately captured at Loch Morar. He was carried in a litter to Fort William and thence sent to London, to the Tower. He was tried before the House of Lords for high treason and condemned to death on 18th March 1747. He appealed for mercy, but the appeal was refused. The sentence of beheading was carried out on 9th April 1747. He was then 80 years of age.— Scots Mag. , 1746, 595; 1747, 101-115, 155; Scots Peerage , v. 537-540.

On 2nd Sept. he went to the house of Lude, 'where he was very chearfull and took his share in several dances . . . such as reels and a Strathspey minuet.' Mrs. Robertson was as fine a Jacobite as her mother. She raised a company of her retainers in the Atholl Brigade. She fired the first shot at the siege of Blair House. Shortly before Culloden Sir Andrew Agnew pillaged her house, while she was in residence, 'breaking to pieces all the doors and windows, and the finishing of the rooms, and some of the floors.' She was taken to Blair Castle, but released. On 21st Jan. 1747 the Privy Council decided that she and her mother should be prosecuted, but this was not carried out. REPORT OF THE FORTY-SECOND ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SCOTTISH HISTORY SOCIETY

THE FORTY-SECOND ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY was held on Saturday, 1st December 1928, in Dowell's Rooms, George Street, Edinburgh,—Sir D. Y. Cameron, R.A., R.S.A., LL.D., in the Chair.

The Report of the Council was as follows :—

During the past year twenty-nine members have died or resigned, twenty new members and three libraries have been enrolled, and the membership, including libraries, is now 649 as compared with 655 last year.

The Society has this year lost two distinguished members in Dr. Walter B. Laikie and Dr. William Mackay. They had in common an intense love for Scotland, and for the Highlands and Islands in particular. They each had many interests and occupations, but each found time to do much, and in many ways, for their countrymen. Dr. Mackay made them his debtors not only by his own writings, but by founding and guiding the Gaelic Society of Inverness; and the Extracts from the Presbytery Records of Inverness and Dingwall, and the other volumes which he edited for the Society, are among its most useful publications. Dr. Laikie's work on the 'Forty-Five, and especially his invaluable Itinerary of Prince Charles Edward published by the Society, will endure as a monument of his power and patience in sifting truth from rumour and tradition. Their many friends would wish also to remember their enthusiasm and loyalty, and the charm and staunchness of their friendship.

The Council also desire to place on record the gratitude of the Society to Professor R. K. Hannay and Mr. William Angus, who resigned office as Joint Honorary Secretaries in February last. In addition to their onerous labours as general editors of publications, they successfully steered the Society through the difficult post-war years. The Council nominated in their place Dr. H. W. Meikle, Keeper of the Manuscripts in the National Library of Scotland, and they recommend that the appointment be confirmed. Mr. Curle, Dr. MacNaughton, and Dr. Dickson retire by rotation from the Council, and it is recommended that they be re-elected. To fill the two other vacancies the Council suggest the names of Mr. Evan M. Barron and Mr. John A. Inglis, K.C.

The large increase in the membership of the Society, reported last year, has hitherto enabled the Council to issue two volumes a year without raising the annual subscription, and members are again urged to bring the claims of the Society before those interested in its objects in order that this highly satisfactory state of affairs may be maintained.

The accounts, appended in abstract, show a credit balance of £446, 15s. 10d. on 11th November 1928.

The Sheriff Court Book of Fife, 1515-1522, edited by Dr. W. C. Dickinson, and The Prisoners of the '45, vol. i., edited by Sir Bruce Seton, Bt., and Mrs. Jean Gordon Arnot, have been issued to members during the current year. As the complete record of a Sheriff Court for the period which it covers, Dr. Dickinson's volume is the first of its kind to be published, and it has been welcomed as one of the most fruitful contributions to the constitutional history of Scotland made in recent years. The Prisoners of the '45, in addition to its historical importance, will have, for many members of the Society, a keen personal interest. Volumes ii. and iii., which contain an annotated alphabetical list of the prisoners, are in the press, and will be sent out shortly as the two publications for 1928-1929. The thanks of the Society are due to Dr. Dickinson, Sir Bruce Seton, and Mrs. Arnot.

The volumes in preparation include the 'Miscellany Volume' reported last year, and the second volume of the Register of the Consultations of the Ministers of Edinburgh, the first volume of which was issued in 1921. Professor Rait's King James's Secret and the few extracts and notes in Tytler's History of Scotland indicate the varied interest of the 'Warrender Papers,' which are being edited by Professor Rait and Miss Annie Cameron. Other volumes under consideration include 'Documents relating to Kirkcudbright,' edited by Mr. R. C. Reid; a 'Regesta Regum Scotorum, 1094-1304,' by Mr. Hunter Marshall; a 'General Index' to the First Series of the Society's publications; 'The Expenditure Book of John Clerk of Eldin, 1769-1786'; and 'The Minutes of the Justices of the Peace for Lanarkshire, 1707-1723.' The Council would welcome any information regarding diaries, memoirs, letters, or other material suitable for publication by the Society.

The Council was afforded an opportunity of giving its opinion to the Royal Commission on National Museums and Galleries on the question of the allocation of documents as between H.M. General Register House and the National Library; and in a memorandum it expressed the view that, in the event of the question ever arising for determination, the Register House is the proper place of deposit for documents similar in kind to Public Records, that all documents of general historical, biographical, and literary interest should be allocated to the National Library, but that collections of family papers should not be broken up unless for some exceptional reason.

THE CHAIRMAN, in moving the adoption of the Report, gave a short address on 'The Romance of Scottish History.' Romance in history, he said, was that spell of mystic beauty, haunted by strangeness of form and colour, remote from the facts and feelings of common life. It did not imply lack of strength, but associated itself with very noble, exalted, and even austere shapes, veiled perhaps by distance, or muted by the fading light and gathering darkness. The term 'romance' might be most appropriately associated with Scottish history. They dared not strip life of its golden age and time of glamour, in which found birth the thoughts which stimulated and inspired. A nation became great through its imaginings and its visions, and above all through its faith; therefore, if they would stir a nobler patriotism, they must serve and sacrifice, and glean from the pages of history all that was of good report, in remembrance of the glorious dead, and prepare a better country for those who were to come after. Life and history were a weariness and disappointment bereft of faith and romance, but when these comrades of the higher world brought their glory and their glamour all things became new.

THE HON. LORD SANDS, in seconding the motion for the adoption of the Report, referred to the question of the re-organisation of H.M. General Register House which had been discussed at previous meetings. One official had now been placed in control of the national records, and there was a prospect of the desires expressed by the Society being realised.

SIR JAMES BALFOUR PAUL moved that the Hon. Treasurer and the Members of Council retiring by rotation be re-elected, that the appointment of the Hon. Secretary be confirmed, and that Mr. Evan M. Barron and Mr. John A. Inglis, K.C., be elected to fill the two vacancies. A vote of thanks to the Chairman was moved by Mr. James MacLehose.
